

THE NEW COAL MINE.

On last Thursday Samuel T. Myers, of Rye township, brought us some fine specimens of the coal lately found in the Cove Mountain. It has the general appearance of anthracite, but is softer, ignites more readily, emits a flame the color of candlelight, and burns like a pine-knot.

This deposit is on the north side of the mountain, in Penn township, about a mile and a half from the Penna. Railroad track and three and a fourth miles below Duncannon. The mouth of the mine is about fifty feet below the top of the mountain and on the side next the railroad. The owners of the land are Messrs. Bell and Zimmerman and the lessees, Messrs. John S. Foose, of Duncannon; Samuel T. Myers, of Rye township, and Geo. L. Crichfield, late of Somerset county, but now a neighbor of Mr. Myers.

The vein is vertical and stands between rocks which are about eight feet apart, but the coal of the quality brought us is compressed within a space of about two feet. On both sides of it, and occupying the remainder of the eight feet between the rocks, are the carboniferous slates. It is thought that the whole space between the rocks is good coal farther down and, from the dip of these rocks, may measure twenty feet or more at not a great distance below the point they are now working at.

There is a road to the top of the mountain from the Fishing Creek side and some of the residents of that valley have used no other coal the present winter save that obtained at this mine.

Should the coal deposit turn out as it is earnestly hoped it may, it will be a big thing for the farmers of this valley and the P. C. R. R., for the mine is but little more than three miles from the eastern terminus of our new railroad.
