Mouse Clarine Klein,2019-01-20 Cassidy Coleman is a sassy but introverted college sophomore out on her own for the first time in her young adult life At the start of fall semester she moves into an apartment along with a randomly assigned roommate from her university Lauren Delaney Lauren is a an outgoing and athletic economics major one year ahead of

Cassidy in school and is just looking for a quiet place to live that doesn't also double as a party house on the weekends. And from day one Cassidy is smitten. Unfortunately for her though things are more than a little awkward between the two of them for the first few weeks of the new semester with Cassidy too tongue tied to properly carry on more than a two sentence conversation before needing to flee to her bedroom. Eventually though the two bond over a mutual love of video games from their childhood one evening and overnight an instant and lifelong friendship is forged. From there friendship soon blossoms into love but with a twist Cassidy is a total brat and loves nothing more than to find excuses to push her long suffering roommate's buttons. Not too long after their friendship is formed they fall into a routine of Cassidy seeing how far she can push things before Lauren finally snaps and scolds her for it. It's a fun game of cat and mouse that they both enjoy but one day things take a step further when Cassidy pushes her best friend into a freezing pool on a chilly winter night. Laughing uproariously at her sputtering roommate she suddenly finds herself being draped across her lap for a well earned spanking. That spanking ends up throwing open the doors on advancing their relationship out of the sexually tense stalemate they'd found themselves in and after having her bottom thoroughly reddened Cassidy all but pounces on her roommate and best friend right there and then kissing her for all she's worth. From there things only get steamier as the two of them start to fall more and more in love with each other and in the process explore their mutual love language. Spanking and discipline
