Choosing Colleges How Social Class And Schools Structure Opportunity:

Choosing Colleges Patricia M. McDonough, 1997-11-13 Examines the everyday experiences of high school seniors as they choose their colleges and demonstrates that college choice is a more complex social and organizational reality than has been previously understood The SAGE Handbook for Research in Education Clifton F. Conrad, Ronald C. Serlin, 2006 Research is increasingly becoming more influential in the field of education and this Handbook brings together a range of top academic experts who represent diverse fields within and outside of education as well as quantitative qualitative and mixed method approaches to provide an upto date advanced analysis of all relevant issues involved in educational research The Handbook is written in lively welcoming prose and central to the handbook is an intention to encourage and help researchers place ideas at the epicenter of inquiry In addition explicit discussion of the fundamental challenges that researchers must consciously address throughout their inquiry are identified and solutions provided to help future researchers overcome similar obstacles

Critical Theory, Methods, and Design in Educational Research Lois Weis, Michelle Fine, Two of the foremost educational researchers chronicle their 30 year collaboration across tumultuous shifts in educational studies bearing witness to cumulative inequities in schools and urban communities Weis and Fine examine critical research designs with young people from elite working class and impoverished class fractions as well as across racial and ethnic groups including those experiencing structural dispossession and those enjoying privilege Curated to be useful to today s students and future generations of scholars the volume chronicles the sustained impacts of unjust state systems and dives into vibrant fissures in which the imagination flourishes and possibilities grow Chapters explore rich linkages of theory and methods knotty questions of collaboration partnership and ethics and designs that trace social relations over time and space A newly developed introduction and conclusion bookend six previously published chapters many coauthored with a range of colleagues animating research studies with a broad range of young people and young adults navigating the uneven landscapes of education in urban America Book Features Details linked to research methodologies including multi site longitudinal ethnography and longitudinal ethnographic interviews as well as participatory action research that the authors among others have advanced in critical educational studies Provides examples of educational research that interrogate inequities and document radical possibilities by race class gender immigration status and sexuality Examines projects that have been designed alongside and by vibrant research teams from across schools prisons youth movements and public and private educational P 16 plus settings Interrogates how the authors evolved innovative research methods and ethics attentive to studying up mapping national youth led surveys participatory inquiry behind bars and with middle school students Offers educational designs that address inequities in STEM education and outcomes and the impact of state violence on young people as well as methods for understanding structural arrangements youth identities and on the ground research for justice

A comparative study of elite English-medium schools, public schools, and Islamic madaris in contemporary

Pakistan Akhtar Hassan Malik, 2015-04-12 This ethnographic study examines the role of differing school knowledge in reproducing various social classes in the society. It was observed that an unequal availability of capital resources, agents' class habitus and the type of their cultural currency act as selection mechanisms that clearly favour some social groups over others. The ruling classes ensure the transfer of their power and privilege to their children by providing them with quality education in elite schools. The disadvantaged classes are excluded from these unique institutions by both social and economic sanctions. They have no other option than to educate their children either in public schools or Islamic madaris. As a result, inequitable educational opportunities consolidate the existing social class hierarchy. Higher Education Choice in China Xiaoming Sheng, 2014-04-16 Much of the existing research on parental involvement and higher education choice examines the difference between the working class and the middle class but little literature looks at different factions within the social classes. This book discusses higher education choice in China particularly through the examination of social issues such as social stratification, parental involvement and gender and educational inequality. Drawing from an empirical study based on Bourdieu's theory, the book explores both inter-class and intra-class differences in China, providing an insight into how social class differences influence a number of issues including educational equality, the role parents especially mothers play in higher education decision making, the relationship between traditional cultural norms, gendered relationships within Chinese families. The sociology of higher education choices are derived through feedback from various sources including both parents and students themselves. The book will be key reading for postgraduates and researchers in the fields of sociology, sociology of education, Chinese studies and Asian studies. Resources in Education, 1998-04 College Choice and Access to College Amy A. Bergerson, 2009 Faced with continuing racial and social stratification, higher education institutions seek ways to increase access to the postsecondary education environment for increasingly diverse student populations in the United States. Attention to the preparation of students for college, changes in policies addressing financial aid and the K-20 schooling environment and movement away from comprehensive models of college choice are characteristics of recent research examining the ways students from different backgrounds determine whether or where to go to college. This volume explores the nuances of the college choice process, focusing specifically on the experiences of students of color and students from lower socioeconomic backgrounds, summarizing the extensive body of literature that shapes practice, policy and research around college choice. This is the fourth issue in the 35th volume of the Jossey-Bass series ASHE Higher Education Report. Each monograph in the series is the definitive analysis of a tough higher education problem based on thorough research of pertinent literature and institutional experiences. Topics are identified by a national survey. Noted practitioners and scholars are then commissioned to write the reports with experts providing critical reviews of each manuscript before publication.

Multicultural Education James A. Banks, Cherry A. McGee Banks, 2019-11-12 As diversity continues to increase in the United States, ethnic, cultural, social class and linguistic gaps are widening between teachers and their students. The rapidly changing educational landscape presents unique challenges and opportunities for addressing diversity both creatively and constructively in schools Multicultural Education helps current and future educators fully understand sophisticated concepts of culture become more effective practitioners in diverse classrooms and view race class gender social class and exceptionality as intersectional concepts Now in its tenth edition this bestselling textbook assists educators to effectively respond to the ways race social class and gender interact to influence student behavior and learning Contributions from leading authorities in multicultural education discuss the effects of class and religion on education differences in educational opportunities for male female and LGBTQ students and issues surrounding non native English speakers students of color and students with disabilities Contemporary in relevance this timely volume promotes multicultural education as a process of school reform Practical advice helps teachers increase student academic achievement work effectively with parents improve classroom assessment and benefit from diversity

A Quantitative Study of the Use of Newsmagazine Rankings in College Choice and the Effects of Social Capital Marlene Coles,2007 Constrained Opportunity and Student Choice in American Higher Education Eric Grodsky,2002 A Promise of Partnership Shirley Diane Tokheim,2007 A Qualitative Exploration of Psychological, Sociological, and Economic Benefit-cost Considerations in the Postsecondary Decision-making Process of Lower-income Australian Youth Christopher James Rasmussen,2005 Navigating Through Highly Unequal Terrain Elvia García Ramírez,2007 A Descriptive Study of Five College Prep Programs in an Urban High School Anyisia Peni Mayer,2003 Theoretical Perspectives on Student Success: Understanding the Contributions of the Disciplines Laura W. Perna,Scott L. Thomas,2008-07-28

Drawing on a review of theory methods and the substantive focus of student success research in four disciplines this report proposes a conceptual model to guide policymakers practitioners and researchers in their efforts to close well documented gaps in student success The model proposes that student success is determined by four layers of context the students internal context the family context the school context and the broader social economic and policy context The model also assumes that student success is a longitudinal process multiple theoretical approaches inform understanding of student success student success is shaped by multiple levels of context the relative contribution of different disciplinary and area perspectives to understanding student success varies multiple methodological approaches contribute to knowledge of student success student success processes vary across groups The monograph offers several implications of the model for policymakers and practitioners as well as researchers This is the first issue in the 34th volume of the Jossey Bass series ASHE Higher Education Report Each monograph in the series is the definitive analysis of a tough higher education problem based on thorough research of pertinent literature and institutional experiences Topics are identified by a national survey Noted practitioners and scholars are then commissioned to write the reports with experts providing critical reviews of each manuscript before publication
