

An illustration of a toucan and its chick. The adult toucan is on the left, perched on a thick, textured brown branch. It has a large, black, hooked beak with a white stripe near the base, a yellow throat, and a red patch on its chest. Its body is primarily black. To its right, a smaller chick is perched on the same branch. The chick has a brown head, a black beak, and a white body with black wings and tail. The background is plain white.
