

ECON 1112 – Chapter 7 – Lecture Notes

1. Measuring Economic Performance

- Measuring the performance of an economy
- It is important to be able to understand and predict the effectiveness of policies and initiatives
- To understand this, we need to understand how economic activities flow
- We then need to identify the challenges related to measuring these flows in order to get an accurate picture of the economy

2. Flow of an Economy and National Income Accounting

- The "economy" is composed of HOUSEHOLDS and BUSINESSES
- The "input" for one comes from the "output" of the other

- Factor Markets is the flow for business to make products
- Factor services - Business input, Household output
- Total income – business output, household input
- Business pays household for their factor services
- Product Markets is the flow of products made by business
- Consumer goods – household input, business output
- $ for final product – household output, business input
- Notice that households receive income from business that they use to pay for consumption
- Notice that business receive factor services that they use to make final consumer goods
- TOTAL OUTPUT must equal TOTAL INPUT
- Notice that PROFIT is what makes TOTAL OUTPUT = TOTAL INPUT

b. Accounting and Measuring the size of an economy

- To measure the size of the economy we only need to measure ONE of the output/inputs
- Why wouldn't we measure two? This would result in double counting
