Class library

Apple's components model is a component library that includes the Thread Component Library (TCL) and the Component Library for Cocoa/Carbon (CLC). Figure 1-1 shows the relationship of selected classes that make up the TCL hierarchy. The CLC hierarchy is similar to the TCL hierarchy, but Windows controls are called widgets (instead of views) and are called widgets (instead of views) and are called widgets (instead of views). There are other differences, but a more detailed description of these hierarchies and the relationship of components among them can be found in “A brief overview of programming the component system,” first encountered in the Mac OS X Developer's Guide, and in the “TCL/CLC classes” section of the “TCL/CLC” on page 35-27 of the Developer's Guide and in the TCL and CLC sections for details on the components.
