Important Note

All service items are vital to the smooth running and reliability of a vehicle, none more so than the timing belt and its associated components. For this reason we have highlighted important information from the manufacturers' service schedules covering the intervals for checks and replacements. Be sure that you make the vehicle owner aware of this information. Industry best practice is to ensure that the vehicle owner is made aware of the importance of replacing the timing belt and its associated components according to the manufacturers' specification. The service history and the use of the vehicle must be considered when deciding the correct course of action. If there is any doubt to the serviceability of the belt and its components, they should be replaced.

Timing belt replacement intervals

- Where possible the recommended intervals have been compiled from vehicle manufacturers' information, in a few instances no recommendation has been made by the manufacturer and the decision to replace the belt must be made from the evidence of a thorough examination of the condition of the existing belt.
- Apart from the visible condition of the belt, which is explained fully in the General instructions/Coupled Timing Belts section, there are several other factors which must be considered when checking a timing belt.

1. Is the belt an original or a replacement?
2. When was the belt last replaced and was it at the correct mileage?
3. Is the service history of the vehicle known?
