

Human Blood Cell Typing

What did you learn?

What?

Antigen-antibody reactions in human transfusions are the basis used to select compatible human blood groups, where compatibility is the ability to transfuse blood successfully to the body, or vice versa, to prevent damage and death to all organs of the recipient. Bloods and blood cells have various proteins for being recognized as self or foreign. Today, modern tests are used with which the donor blood can be identified.

Activity 1 – How Blood Cells are Identified

	Person with Blood Type A	Person with Blood Type B	Person with Blood Type AB	Person with Blood Type O
Cells with attached antigens
Antibody proteins
Cells to the person's own blood transfused
Cells to the person's own blood not transfused

1. Blood is not tested because compatibility can be determined by the presence or absence of antigens on the surface of cells and antibodies.

2. Remembering Activity 1, (person's) blood type can be used to the following chart:

Blood Antigens:

3. When donor blood is transfused, compatibility is tested:

Antibodies:

4. When compatibility is type A and blood cell there is type B and blood cells

Special and Important Note: Antigens are the surface of cells and antibodies are proteins on the surface.
