

6.2 Weighing Procedures

- 1) When powered on, the instrument turns into an automatic self-test and is ready for weight after zeroing.
- 2) Put the blood bag in the right position and the machine takes it automatically. Push relative buttons for setting the parameters and make ready for blood collecting.
- 3) The machine starts working after a vein puncture.
- 4) If the blood bag is taken away in the process of the collection, the machine stops swinging and restarts swinging after it is relocated.
- 5) If the blood collection weight is preset, the machine stops swinging at 10ml left before reaching the preset value and turns into precision weighing.
- 6) The alarm is activated after reaching the preset value. If the machine has a clamping function, the clamp comes into the position and stops blood collection. Take out the blood bag immediately at this moment.
- 7) Switch off the machine and cut off the power supply after the job is finished.
