Linking of Emissions Trading Schemes Matthias Machinek, 2022-02-01 Anthropogenic Climate Change is one of the biggest challenges of the 21st century and receives more and more international awareness. The central instruments to counter climate change are emissions trading schemes (ETS) to cover GHG emissions. To increase efficiency and to ensure global reduction of emissions damaging to the climate, an international emissions trading scheme would be a rational choice. To establish such a global scheme, political decision makers could follow a bottom up approach by linking already existing ETS with each other. The book investigates such linkings of emissions trading schemes which provide many benefits for the linking partners. As experience shows, although the number of schemes increased in the last decade, only a few linkings were established. Thus, the book answers the question if and which conditions for states exist to link their emissions trading schemes. Environmental Health Perspectives, 1993

A Tale of Two Cities: A Comparison of Air Pollution Governance in the Los Angeles Area of the USA and the Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei Area of China Xi Wang, Richard Ottinger, 2023-12-11 The successful reduction of urban air pollution is among the notable achievements of modern environmental law and policy. This remarkable study focusing on two of the world's most prominent cases explores how people in the areas of Los Angeles and Beijing-Tianjin-Hebei (BTH) established governance processes to combat air pollution and how the major actors in each area worked to make their region a better place to live. Employing the expertise of teams of knowledgeable environmental law experts from both China and the United States, the authors identify and analyze similarities and differences in the respective legal and policy experiences as actors succeeded in greatly improving the air quality of their areas. Underpinned by a model of environmental governance developed by the authors and presenting an abundance of first-hand information from both areas, the study finds that despite broad political and cultural differences in both regions, three political relations in governance processes emerge as enablers of effective reduction of air pollution: relation between regulators and the regulated communities, relation between all the supervisory political entities such as legislatures etc. and regulators, and relation between civil society including news media and nongovernmental organizations and polluters. Specific areas of regulation covered include transportation, ports, energy efficiency, utilities, oil refineries, building efficiency, renewable energy, coal dependency, and optimizing energy structure. With its sound, replicable model, its solid findings, and its enlightening conclusions, this incomparable work will prove of immeasurable value to administrative authorities and counsel worldwide engaged in combating air pollution. Moreover, its creative methodology is a signal contribution to the comparative study of environmental law and policy. Annual Environmental Report and Message of the Governor California.

generating facility called Hydrogen Energy California HECA in Kern County California The project as proposed would gasify blends of petroleum coke 25 % and coal 75% to produce hydrogen to fuel a combustion turbine operating in combined cycle mode The gasification component would produce 180 million standard cubic feet per day MMSCFD of hydrogen to feed a 400 megawatt MW gross 288 MW net combined cycle plant providing California with dispatchable baseload power to the grid The gasification component would also capture approximately 130 MMSCFD of carbon dioxide or approximately 90 percent at steady state operation which would be transported and used for enhanced oil recovery and sequestration storage in the Elk Hills Oil Field Unit The HECA project would also produce approximately 1 million tons of fertilizer for domestic use California
