A Listening Wind Marcia Haag, 2016-12-01 A Listening Wind a collection of translated original texts and commentary edited by Marcia Haag highlights the large array of Indigenous linguistic and cultural groups of the U S Southeast A whole range of genres and selected texts represent language groups of the Choctaw Creek Chickasaw Yuchi Cherokee Koasati Houma Catawba and Atakapa The traditional and modern Native literature genres showcased in A Listening Wind include stories that speakers perceive to be in the past or fixed genres that have developed alongside these stories and modern story types that have sometimes supplanted traditional tales and are now enjoying trajectories of their own These texts have been selected to demonstrate particular literary themes and the cultural perspectives that inform them Introductory essays illuminate how they fit into Native American religious and philosophical systems Overall this collection discloses the sometimes hidden connections among genres as well as their importance to language groups of the Southeast

Indigenuity Caroline Wigginton, 2022-10-06 For hundreds of years American artisanship and American authorship were entangled practices rather than distinct disciplines Books like other objects were multisensory items all North American communities and cultures including Native and settler colonial ones regularly made and used All cultures and communities narrated and documented their histories and imaginations through a variety of media All created objects for domestic sacred curative and collective purposes In this innovative work at the intersection of Indigenous studies literary studies book history and material culture studies Caroline Wigginton tells a story of the interweavings of Native craftwork and American literatures from their ancient roots to the present Focused primarily on North America especially the colonized lands and waters now claimed by the United States this book argues for the foundational but often hidden aesthetic orientation of American literary history toward Native craftwork Wigginton knits this narrative to another of Indigenous aesthetic repatriation through the making and using of books and works of material expression Ultimately she reveals that Native craftwork is by turns the warp and weft of American literature interwoven throughout its long history Choctaw Crime and Punishment, 1884-1907 Devon Abbott Mihesuah, 2012-11-13 During the decades between the Civil War and the establishment of Oklahoma statehood Choctaws suffered almost daily from murders thefts and assaults usually at the hands of white intruders but increasingly by Choctaws themselves This book focuses on two previously unexplored murder cases to illustrate the intense factionalism that emerged among tribal members during those lawless years as conservative Nationalists and pro assimilation Progressives fought for control of the Choctaw Nation Devon Abbott Mihesuah describes the brutal murder in 1884 of her own great great grandfather Nationalist Charles Wilson who was a Choctaw lighthorseman and U S deputy marshal She then relates the killing spree of Progressives by Nationalist Silan Lewis ten years later Mihesuah draws on a wide array of sources even in the face of missing court records to weave a spellbinding account of homicide and political intrigue She painstakingly delineates a transformative period in Choctaw history to explore emerging gulfs between

Choctaw citizens and address growing Indian resistance to white intrusions federal policies and the taking of tribal resources The first book to fully describe this Choctaw factionalism Choctaw Crime and Punishment is both a riveting narrative and an important analysis of tribal politics Catalog to Manuscripts at the National Anthropological Archives, Department of Anthropology, National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. National Anthropological Archives,1975
