IN-TEXT CITATIONS

When paraphrasing or quoting from a source give an in-text citation. In-text citations point readers to full source details in a References page. In-text citations require author and year; direct quotations also require page numbers (if known).

In-Text Citation When Paraphrasing:

According to one researcher, students learn best when they are actively engaged (Smith, 2011).

In her research, Smith (2011) found that students learn best when they are actively engaged.

In-Text Citation When Quoting:

Smith (2011) concluded that "the evidence shows that community college students learn best when they are actively participating in a lecture" (p. 49).

One scholar concluded that "students learn best when they are actively participating" (Smith, 2011, p. 49).

If citing a source with no author, give first words
of title in quotation marks and year:

Scientists in Oceanside discovered that blue whales prefer colder water ("New Ocean Discoveries," 2009).

MULTIPLE AUTHORS

For in-text citations for sources with 6 or more authors list et al. after first author (Brown et al., 2012). On the References page for more than 7 authors list first 6 authors then as ellipsis and then final author.

- References begin on a separate page at end
- Heading (References) is centered at top of page
- Sources alphabetized by author's last name;
for works without author, alphabetize by title.
