Mountains of the Great Blue Dream Robert Leonard Reid, 1992. A marvelous explorer. Wonderfully fluent, even visionary in his prose, Reid guides us down many trails that don't exist on maps.

Jegu insists Adam take a sample strain grown especially for him: Blue Dream. When his roommates begin to whine about the rut of their day, Adam decides to bust out the mysterious ganja. Without hesitation, Daniella Derrick and Andrew join him in passing a joint around their group ritual of getting stoned together. Little do they know what type of adventure one hit of this magical strain will take them on.

Journey in Blue Stig Dalager, 2006. In Journey in Blue, Stig Dalager has conjured up the complex personality of the Danish master storyteller Hans Christian Andersen to create a portrait of the writer. Andersen's life swims into focus in fragments as morphine is administered to him in his final days. His interactions with the men and women who influenced his life and work reveal how he transformed his experiences into literature, including his celebrated fairytales. Yet his painful search for literary validation and religious certainty, combined with other longings that he is not always able to identify or control, often result in him feeling alienated, even tormented, and unable to understand why the Danes should have ambiguous feelings about him and the significance of his writings. For years, he felt unrecognized as a major artist in his own country. This novel is Dalager's first to appear in English and is one of the most translated Danish novels of recent years. It takes the reader on an absorbing journey through the mind, spirit, and imagination of one of the most important names in world literature.

One afternoon we had sailed out, dressed in our oilskins, and the skipper, who submerged to the waist, had pushed us off the shore through the breakers. He had warned us to be back within two hours, for at that time the ebb tide set in, and with the fresh north breeze the strong current would make it difficult for us to land. My father had nodded as though he were thinking of something else, and had long ago penetrated and computed the caprices of the gray and formidable North Sea.
