A University for the 21st Century 20 Years Later James J. Duderstadt, 2017 University presidents are expected to draw upon their experiences to draft a book suggesting possible futures for higher education Since my term of office ended in 1996 as the new century approached it was natural to label this assignment as A University for the 21st Century a book that was awarded the Alice Beeman Award of CASE the Council on Advancement and Support of Education in 2001 Although this effort was heavily influenced by my experience in serving the University of Michigan as dean provost and president during the 1980s and 1990s I attempted to paint a broader picture of American higher education writ large Of course universities have a remarkable constancy in roles such as teaching and scholarship in organizations such as schools colleges and departments and in cultures such as academic freedom and tenure Indeed as Clark Kerr has noted in his famous quote Annual Report of the Trustees Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.). Board of Trustees, 1991 An Operating Manual for the University of Michigan James J. Duderstadt, Anne Duderstadt, 2018 The University of Michigan clearly qualifies for inclusion in the small group of institutions that have shaped American higher education Michigan has long defined the model of the large comprehensive public research university with a serious commitment to scholarship and service It has been distinguished by unusual breadth a rich diversity of academic disciplines and professional schools social and cultural activities and intellectual pluralism This unrelenting commitment to academic excellence broad student access and public service continues today In virtually all national and international surveys the university's programs rank among the very best with most of its schools colleges and departments ranking in quality among the top ten nationally and with several regarded as the leading programs in the nation

Planning for Growing Populations Robert Cassen, Margaret Wolfson, 1978 The basic needs and services that the vast masses of the population in developing countries must have to improve their quality of life are examined Chapter 1 of nine chapters discusses implications of rapid population growth for social and economic planning Rapid population growth in the developing countries is discussed in chapter 2 Food requirements the problems of supply and distribution and nutritional levels are examined in chapter 3 and action programs are analyzed The fourth chapter on health points out three basic defects in health planning a neglect of non medical aspects of health an excessive concentration on curative medicine and within curative services a socially and geographically selective bias In regard to housing the focus of chapter 5 there is a need for low cost and self help housing The current dissatisfaction with education dealt with in chapters 6 and 7 is not the inadequacy of the resources but with how they are used Employment is dealt with in the last two chapters Discussed is the need to redistribute employment opportunities incomes and assets in favor of the rural poor RM
