What Causes the Tides?

Gravitational forces of the Moon and Sun on the Earth cause tides. Tides are periodic rises and fall of large bodies of water. As the tide flows in, water level rises and rises. When the water reaches its highest level, it is considered high tide. After the point of high tide, the waters ebb (go out slowly) away. When the water reaches its lowest point, it is considered low tide. The water level difference between high and low tides varies from a few centimeters to 13 meters depending on the location.

The gravitational attraction of the moon causes the oceans to bulge out in the direction of the moon. Another bulge occurs on the opposite side, since the Earth is also being pulled toward the moon. Isaac Newton was the first person to explain the tides scientifically.

Spring tides are especially strong tides. They occur when the Earth, the Sun and the Moon are in a straight line. Spring tides occur during the full and the new moon. Neap tides are especially weak tides. They occur when the gravitation forces of the Moon and Sun are at right angles to each other. Neap tides occur during quarter moons.

What To Do:

1. In the diagrams to the right label the Earth and the Moon.
The ring around the Earth shows the tidal bulge.
2. In diagram A color the bulge green.
3. In diagram B color the bulge blue.
4. Label the correct diagram with Spring Tides and Neap Tides.

Questions:

1. Why does diagram A show the largest tidal bulge?

2. Why does diagram B show the smallest tidal bulge?

3. What phases of the moon are shown in diagram A?

4. What phases of the moon are shown in diagram B?

5. What causes the ocean's tides? _____
