The Age of STEM Brigid Freeman, Simon Marginson, Russell Tytler, 2014-10-24 Across the world STEM learning and work in Science Technology Engineering and Mathematics has taken central importance in education and the economy in a way that few other disciplines have STEM competence has become seen as key to higher productivity technological adaptation and research based innovation No area of educational provision has a greater current importance than the STEM disciplines yet there is a surprising dearth of comprehensive and world wide information about STEM policy participation programs and practice The Age of STEM is a state of the art survey of the global trends and major country initiatives in STEM It gives an international overview of issues such as STEM strategy and coordination curricula teaching and assessment women in STEM indigenous students research training STEM in the graduate labour markets STEM breadth and STEM depth The individual chapters give comparative international analysis as well as a global overview particularly focusing on the growing number of policies and practices in mobilising and developing talent in the STEM fields The book will be of particular interest to anyone involved in educational policy those in education management and leaders in both schooling and tertiary education It will have a wider resonance among practitioners in the STEM disciplines particularly at university level and for those interested in contemporary public policy Annual Report South Africa.
