Beigel, 2019-05-16 This is the forgotten story of the American World War II dead Told from personal family letters official documents contemporary magazine and newspaper articles historical research and previously unpublished photographs this is the first book to fully describe the return of the valiant dead to America after World War II in tribute to those who gave their lives as well as to those who mercifully brought them home Few people know that the United States was the only nation to bring home our war dead after World War II The bodies of America's fallen were removed from foreign graves across the globe often years after they died More than 280 000 were recovered leaving that number of American families with an agonizing choice return their beloved sons to the homeland or let them rest in military cemeteries overseas in the countries they died to liberate Some of our allies were strongly against the idea fearing their citizens reactions to not being able to bring home their own sons But it was done because American families demanded it not as a collective organized effort but

Neff, 2005 In his estimation Northerners were just as active as Southerners in myth making after the war Crafting a Cause Victorious myth that was every bit as resonant and powerful as the much better known Lost Cause myth cherished by Southerners the North asserted through commemorations the existence of a loyal and reunified nation long before it was actually a fact Neff reveals that as Northerners and Southerners honored their separate dead they did so in ways that underscore the limits of reconciliation between Union and Confederate veterans whose mutual animosities lingered for many decades after the need of the war Ultimately Neff argues that the process of reunion and reconciliation that has been so much the focus of recent literature either neglects or dismisses the persistent reluctance of both Northerners and Southerners to forgive and forget especially where their dead were concerned      International Law: Disputes, war and neutrality Lassa Oppenheim, 1926      International Law; a Treatise Lassa Francis Lawrecne Oppenheim, 1926      Memoirs of the Harvard Dead in the War Against Germany Mark Antony De Wolfe Howe, 1923      The Challenge of the Dead Stephen Graham, 1921      The Union Soldier in Battle Earl J.
