Horne, Rebecca Elizabeth Tharme, Jonathan Tonkin, Eric D. Stein, 2022-12-05      Effects of Non-Random Sources of Alteration on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Functioning Tian Zhao, Chuanbo Guo, Chao Wang, Chunsheng Liu, Paraskevi Manolaki, 2023-11-15 Understanding how biological diversity affects ecosystem functioning is a key question in modern ecology This is of particular importance in the general context of recent global changes caused by human activities such as water abstraction flow regulation shifts in agricultural practices contamination climate changes and biological invasions These changes are affecting biodiversity ecosystem functioning and their complex interactions simultaneously However our ability to understand how genes individuals populations communities and ecosystems may respond to such changes is limited despite ecologists frequently being requested to provide policymakers and managers with predictions Indeed the species that composed biodiversity can establish complex trophic links between them in the ecosystems This structure of food webs is under the permanent constraint of community dynamics which connects species populations communities and ecosystems Therefore the response of food webs to perturbations can help ecologists to better understand the relationship between biological diversity and ecosystem functioning      Environmental threats to the state of florida—climate change and beyond, Volume II Marcus W. created a need for innovative agricultural practices to effectively manage soil borne pathogens While traditional soil fumigation has been commonly used alternative practices like soil bio fumigation biosolarization and anaerobic soil disinfestation ASD have gained popularity due to their potential sustainability benefits However these techniques often rely on impermeable plastic barriers which can be a drawback from a sustainability standpoint Promisingly there are technologies emerging that focus on shifting soil microbial communities to naturally suppress soil borne pathogens and diseases By leveraging these microbial communities we may indirectly enhance soil health and promote a circular economy particularly when incorporating organic amendments originating from agricultural and food byproduct bioconversion technologies This research topic seeks high quality articles and reviews that illuminate the interactions between soil organic amendments and pathogens in both the short and long term We aim to gain a better understanding of the mechanisms at play in controlling soil borne pathogens including the resilience of microbial communities the role of plant resistance and the overall effects on soil health and crop yields
