Chinese Students in UK Further Education Rosemary A. Reynolds, 2017-12-15 Chinese students in the UK have been increasing in number for many years yet competition from other Western educators and increasing investment in China s own education system has led to concern that UK institutions may soon see a decline in their market share Dr Reynolds addresses this issue in Chinese Students in UK Further Education by attempting to understand students experiences from their perspective Beginning with an exploration of why these students choose to come and study in the UK and why they are coming at younger ages the book goes on to discuss topics such as risk technology and diversity in order to understand which factors have the greatest influence on where they choose to study and whether they choose to remain at an institution Drawing on data from two different education institutions providers of GCSE A level programmes for students aged 16 18 years Dr Reynolds attempts to understand what these students experience during their studies how they manage new social relationships and whether upon course completion they achieved the results they desired at the outset Moreover the book aims to ascertain whether the students feel in hindsight that the decision to risk investing in UK further education was right and what they might communicate about UK study to contacts in China and elsewhere The book examines what further education institutions do well and where they might improve to help develop Chinese students educational experiences As such it will be essential reading for academics researchers and postgraduates in the fields of further education sociology of education international and intercultural education and mobility studies

Productivity in Higher Education Caroline M. Hoxby, Kevin

Stange,2020-01-10 How do the benefits of higher education compare with its costs and how does this comparison vary across individuals and institutions These questions are fundamental to quantifying the productivity of the education sector The studies in Productivity in Higher Education use rich and novel administrative data modern econometric methods and careful institutional analysis to explore productivity issues The authors examine the returns to undergraduate education differences in costs by major the productivity of for profit schools the productivity of various types of faculty and of outcomes the effects of online education on the higher education market and the ways in which the productivity of different institutions responds to market forces The analyses recognize five key challenges to assessing productivity in higher education the potential for multiple student outcomes in terms of skills earnings invention and employment the fact that colleges and universities are multiproduct firms that conduct varied activities across many domains the fact that students select which school to attend based in part on their aptitude the difficulty of attributing outcomes to individual institutions when students attend more than one and the possibility that some of the benefits of higher education may arise from the system as a whole rather than from a single institution The findings and the approaches illustrated can facilitate decision making processes in higher education

Economic Issues Frank J. Bonello,2006 Taking Sides Clashing Views on Economic Issues Twelfth Edition is a debate style reader designed to introduce students to controversies in economics The readings which represent the arguments of leading economists and commentators reflect a variety of viewpoints and have been selected for their liveliness and substance and because of their value in a debate framework For each issue the editor provides a concise introduction and postscript summary The introduction sets the stage for the debate as it is argued in the yes and no readings and the postscript briefly reviews the opposing views and suggests additional reading on the controversial issue under discussion By requiring students to analyze opposing viewpoints and reach considered judgments Taking Sides actively develops students critical thinking skills It is this development of critical thinking skills that is the ultimate purpose of each of the volumes in the widely acclaimed Taking Sides program

Reproducing Inequalities in Teaching Stefania Pigliapoco,2022-12-30

The book analyses how lines of non belonging are traced and how notions of non belonging circulate around and are attached to students from immigrant backgrounds Such circulations coalesce around values and practices linked to gendered ethnic majority middle class norms through which difference is positioned and opposed in hierarchical terms This project analyses the relationship between teachers identities and their attitudes and pedagogic dispositions towards students from immigrant backgrounds showing how these affect each other contributing to their state of non belonging in the educational setting and in the wider society Attention is brought to the pervasive and normalised background of neoliberal ideology permeating the educational environment In examining the problematic relationship between the previous elements the book uncovers the intersectional reproduction of lines of belonging and not belonging While the analysis is centred on a study in Italy it is situated within and provides links to international connections facilitating a wider and global understanding of issues related to social justice The book will be of interest to undergraduate and postgraduate students and researchers across sociology education gender and cultural studies Due to the intersectional approach and the width of the issues explored it will be of use to policymakers and practitioners
