Beginning Teachers Michael Crowhurst, 2015-04-27 In this collection of narratives beginning teachers describe and reflect on critical incidents classes that didn't quite go to plan. These experiences are recalled in a general way and all names and locations are fictionalized. Each narrative while situated in a classroom focuses on the experience of the teacher author and sheds light on their thinking as they work through the complex event they are remembering. Beginning teachers then imagine how they might approach a similar situation in the future. While developing reflective practice techniques can support and enhance individual practice when these accounts are shared with others there is some scope for enhancing educative experiences generally. There is a long tradition of reflective practice writing in education and this small workbook aims to make a contribution to this genre. Each reflective practitioner narrative is followed with an invitation to discussion section and periodically through the workbook sideline methodologies are introduced that readers can use to support further analysis. The beginning teacher narratives are authentic, complex and alive and as a consequence they will generate lively discussion in tutorial spaces with beginning teachers. The materials are informed by various strands of poststructural and critical theory and therefore they are intended to reflect a dialogic stance rather than signpost specific directions.

Inclusive Education Zeta Brown, 2016-04-28 Inclusive education is complex, multi-faceted and ever-changing and to date there has been no fixed definition of what is meant by the term inclusion leading to confusion about what inclusive education actually means in practice. This key text introduces readers to the underlying knowledge and wider complexities of inclusion and explores how this can relate to practice. Considering inclusion as referring to all learners it surveys the concept of inclusive practice in its broadest sense and examines its implementation in a variety of educational institutions. Throughout the book international contributors consider this broader concept to critically evaluate the realities of practically implementing inclusive objectives. Each chapter assesses key theories and concepts alongside a range of examples to encourage students to think critically and reappraise their own experience as learners. Key topics covered include studying the definition of inclusion, the relevance of pedagogy in inclusive practice, how to lead and manage for inclusion, the issue of inclusion in early years, primary, secondary and post-16 settings, inclusive practice for families, international perspectives on inclusive practice. Fully illustrated with tasks, case studies, discussion questions and recommended reading. Inclusive Education is essential reading for second and third year students looking to extend their research and writing and to develop their critical and reflective thinking.

Children's Images of Identity Jill Brown, Nicola F. Johnson, 2015-06-25 The understandings which children have of Indigenous identity provide means by which to explore the ways in which Indigenous identity is both projected and constructed in society. These understandings play a powerful part in the ways in which Indigenous peoples are positioned in the mainstream society with which they are connected. The research presented in this edited collection uses children's drawings to illuminate and explore the images children both mainstream and Indigenous have of Indigenous peoples The data generated by this process allows exploration of the ways in which Indigenous identity is understood globally through a series of locally focussed studies connected by theme and approach The data serves to illuminate both the space made available by mainstream groups and aspects of modernity accommodated within the Indigenous sense of self Our aim within this project has been to analyse and discuss the ways in which children construct identity both their own and that of others Children were asked to share their thoughts through drawings which were then used as the basis for conversation with the researchers In this way the interaction between mainstream modernity and traditional Indigenous identity is made available for discussion and the connection between children s lived experiences of identity and the wider global discussion is both immediately enacted and located within broader international understandings of Indigenous cultures and their place in the world

Learning to See: The Meanings, Modes and Methods of Visual Literacy Michael

Heitkemper-Yates,Katarzyna Kaczmarczyk,2019-01-04 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2016 If indeed Vision is the art of seeing what is invisible to others as Jonathan Swift has so famously phrased it then visual literacy is the art of translating the seen through image word and gesture so that the invisible can be made visible to others In other words visual literacy specifies a process of articulation that employs both sight and insight in the service of interpreting the language of the image reading the narrative of the graphic and deciphering the codes and modes of the visual This volume represents an attempt to convey some of the many ideas surrounding visual literacy and advance the interdisciplinary field of visual literacy studies toward new areas of research and inquiry
