Bittersweet Lessons Of A Startup Guy:

Bittersweet Lessons of a Startup Guy Sudipto Majumdar, 2014-12-27 We all go through life accumulating experiences and from them we learn lessons Some lessons are happy ones we learn from our successes and others from our failures at least that's the way it is supposed to be An entrepreneur struggles at two levels One is at a professional level trying to get the business right and the other is at a personal level trying to cope with personal familial and social pressures of the tons of setbacks that the entrepreneur has to navigate through the journey of a startup This book is not about the professional struggle There is no attempt at analyzing any business techniques This book is about the personal and emotional struggles of an entrepreneur More specifically it is about my personal struggles along with some struggles that I observed of my friends and other fellow entrepreneurs I have addressed this book to the set of people who from my personal experience needs emotional reinforcement validation and encouragement the most young persons who are either thinking of doing a startup or have just jumped into one I happened to have been forced to keep note of my failures due to circumstances explained in the book from which I have drawn inferences and codified them as lessons for myself These are not general life lessons or technical lessons about running a business These are lessons I have learnt about the personal struggles trials and tribulations of a person doing a startup I felt compelled to share my lessons with the world for reasons explained inside in the most public way possible by writing it in a book So what qualifies me to be writing my lessons about a startup person's personal struggles that is worthy of your time and consideration I am neither a person who succeeded spectacularly in a startup that you read about in business publications nor am I a person of notoriety who failed spectacularly to be news worthy That I believe is my primary qualification I am the average startup guy who has in his midlife reached an average destination that most startup guys on an average probably will reach Thus I share the perspective of the vast majority of startup guys who did not fail but are not sitting on personal net worth of hundreds of millions of dollars either This book should be of interest to people who are thinking of jumping into a startup or who have started up and are now going through their struggles at a personal and emotional level possibly full of self doubt I tackle these issues head on not to discourage anyone from doing a startup quite the opposite I would like you to see that these struggles can be overcome and on an average you do not come out as bad in life as you may be scared of even if your startup is not the next Facebook Google or Microsoft This book also gives insights into the toolkit available to any startup person and how I use them There is no right way to use these toolkits it depends on the person you are and your style I had my strengths and weaknesses and I used them accordingly You would use them differently One thing about the use of the toolkit is universal though which I illustrate continuously through the book and my note keeping is the primary example of that the importance of being able to measure yourself as objectively as possible and being able to improve What you can measure you can improve Don't expect any secret or magic formula in this book for there is none that I know of Wouldn't I have used it myself And would I be sharing it so freely with you This is a set of lessons and views that I have garnered through 25 years of my life as a startup guy Los Angeles Magazine ,2001-05 Los Angeles magazine is a regional magazine of national stature Our combination of award winning feature writing investigative reporting service journalism and design covers the people lifestyle culture entertainment fashion art and architecture and news that define Southern California Started in the spring of 1961 Los Angeles magazine has been addressing the needs and interests of our region for 48 years The magazine continues to be the definitive resource for an affluent population that is intensely interested in a lifestyle that is uniquely Southern Californian The Boston Globe Index ,2001 Freedom to Fail Shabnam Aggarwal,2018-12-05 My dear incredible beautiful team of superheroes Over the past two years we have given this idea everything we ve got We ve given it our love our time our sweat and even some of our tears We will be shutting down next Friday I love you guys and I am sorry to have let you down Yours truly Shabnam Shabnam Aggarwal always dreamt of success Raised in an immigrant Indian family in the start up hub of Silicon Valley she believed that every entrepreneur could be successful So she left her cushy job at Merrill Lynch to take a risk find her passion and make a change in the world She moved to India to start a company In Freedom to Fail Shabnam tells the story of her brush with success raising her first round of venture capital hiring a hardworking team of millennials growing her start up to multiple cities and then finding it all come to a bitter end Shabnam gives us a peek into the world of start ups in India Her personal journey gives us an insight into dealing with failure warning us of the challenges of starting a business and helping us learn from her experience Weaving each chapter into a powerful lesson in overcoming expectations fear and self doubt she shows us why failure is important even imperative in order to ultimately succeed And the best lesson she learnt You haven t failed until you stop trying 50 Failed Startup Lessons Alexander Small,2019-11-17 Failure sucks You may have heard of the famous startup math nine of out 10 startups fail The bitter truth about failure hurts but the most important thing is that most entrepreneurs move on to do something else It s not over until you give up There are a ton of startups trying to make it and a lot of them just don t make the cut Whether it s poor budgeting lack of excitement or bad management the onus is on the founders to explain what really happened The good news for aspiring entrepreneurs is that some founders open up about their failures and share their experiences with the public without hesitation I have rounded up over 50 startups that failed and the reasons why they failed to make it The reasons for their failure were shared by the founders and those close to management in various startup post mortems online Learn from their experiences and avoid the issues they had to deal with Think Like Gary Vee Ivan Fernandez,2019-08-28 Feel overwhelmed by your thoughts Struggling with finding your true purpose in life Or do you want to stop feeling lost in life The truth is We all experience the occasional down moments But if you always feel unproductive then you need to closely examine how these thoughts are negatively impacting your life The solution is to find a mentor a true mentor who have achieved what we ve ever wanted This way we can cut short our learning curve by 15 20 years or more depending on how effective we absorb the valuable knowledge and wisdom by these mentor

Growing a Business. Lessons from 101 start-ups Przemek Chojewski, Kevin Hart. When starting PetaCrunch, an AI-powered media company which focuses on interviewing founders, CEOs, and senior executives about their work and how it all started, we didn't know the level of attention we would get. After three months of running it online, we have been literally flooded with emails, having days with over a thousand messages sent to different recipients. Crazy! But it was worth it. We have interviewed over 800 companies so far, started a newsletter, and built some amazing tools along the way. But primarily, we've learned a lot from all the stories that were shared with us. Some were very personal and touching, some motivating, or highlighting an interesting aspect of being an entrepreneur. It's amazing how diverse founders are; there's no common trait apart from two: patience and persistence. Businesses rarely take off in the very first year. They need time to start carving their niche in the market. Understanding how to grow a business from 0 to 100 is what motivated us in the first place to start PetaCrunch. That's why we've decided to put together our very first book because we truly believe that you can learn a lot by reading about how others started and grew their businesses.
