Edexcel GCSE Geography B

Paper 1 - Global Geographical Issues - Hazardous Earth-Work Booklet

This is a very strong answer, containing several ideas. The cause of a tsunami is identified, along with the explanatory point of the energy causing waves. Further explanation is given regarding plate movement, a mark 4

Explains processes fully, the next expert extension to fill in the gaps for you

10/10 Exceeds expectations of a tsunami

A tsunami is caused by a release of energy caused by an earthquake which sends waves through the water. The earthquake is caused by a build up of pressure between two plates which then push past each other to release energy

With this type of question, as well as identifying the physical process causing a tsunami, some explanation is needed as to how this process leads to wave formation

This is a typical response. A difference of between volcanic types is identified for a mark but there is no explanation as to why this difference occurs. 2 mark

Remember in 'explain and' questions, one factor needs to be identified and then developed with two explanatory points

This is a strong answer, also includes detail on the processes going on the submersible volcanoes. Some candidates did not answer the question concerning the differences and instead only discussed the difference between the plate boundaries.

A significant number of answers confused the types of volcanoes and attributed extension characteristics to the convergent plate boundary

10/10 Exceeds expectations of a tsunami

At divergent plate boundaries, the volcanoes are faster and not spread out. On the other hand, the volcanoes at convergent plate boundaries have been shaped like the ancient Mount Everest
