"Overall we believe the world we live in is facing radical change – and our aim is to help find positive futures in the face of that change. To get in shape for the challenges of the future, we need a culture that knows how to sustain the things that sustain us and at the same time nurtures creativity, imagination and adaptability."

"The time has passed when a few influential people could gather in a room to decide what a city will be. Instead, a city's future is determined by hundreds of actions taken daily by thousands of people based on what they believe about a city's future and their role in it."

Relocating England Peter W. Preston, 2004. Relocating England considers the implications of the rise of the European Union for the ways in which people in the UK think of themselves as political actors. The book considers whether the elite ideas of Britain, Britishness, might be breaking down, thereby opening up the possibility of a broadly based re-animation of the ideas of England, Englishness. Such a political/cultural project would imply great changes within the UK: democratisation, Europeanisation and modernisation. It is a threat to the elite, but it is an opportunity for the ordinary English. The book follows in the footsteps of those scholars who have criticised the conservatism of the UK political establishment, their obsession with the special relationship with the USA and their blithe disregard of the benefits of the mainland model of progressive social market democracy.
