

International Portfolio Investment

Chapter Objectives

1. To determine the risk associated with investing in securities from different markets and denominated in various currencies.
2. To calculate the return associated with investing in securities from different countries and denominated in various currencies.
3. To explain how international diversification can allow investors to achieve a better risk-return trade-off than by investing solely in one-country securities, such as US securities.
4. To describe the various ways in which domestic investors, such as US investors can diversify into foreign securities.
5. To identify the barriers to international investment.

Chapter Outline

1. Key Diversification Terminologies
  - A. Two conflicts from investment in assets are:
    - i. Very few financial variables are known with certainty.
    - ii. Investors are basically risk averters.
  - B. Risk is variability in the return generated by investment in an asset.
    - i. Risk may be measured by the dispersion of alternative returns around the average return.

C. Corner, D C Corner, 2019-07-23 With the entry of the United Kingdom into the European Economic Community on 1 January 1973 the opportunity presented itself for a study of open end investment funds in the enlarged Community The resulting book which in a way is a natural sequel to the study Investment and Unit Trusts in Britain and America Elek London 1968 in which Dr Corner collaborated with Mr H Burton has been a long time in preparation simply because of the sheer volume of statistical material in particular consistent sets of reports and accounts of all the EEC and Swiss investment funds which has had to be collected As a result some of the analysis is based on what will inevitably be somewhat dated material at the time of publication Unfortunately this is a handicap suffered by all such statistical work unless one has large financial and manpower resources We have done our best to update certain key statistics wherever this has been possible
