

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A COIN

My starting days from the mine:

I am now an old coin, and have been in circulation for many years. But I can still remember my early youth. My active life began when I was paid over the counter of a bank, along with other new rupees, to a gentleman who cashed a cheque. I went off jingling in his pocket but I was not long there, as he gave me to a shopkeeper. The shopkeeper looked pleased, and banged me on the counter to see if I were genuine. Then he threw me into a drawer, with a lot of other coins that have remained motionless prior to my arrival. Surprisingly, when I went in, they made a certain sound of cheer and applause as if they were happy to see me come in with them. Another year of waiting with my fellow mates gave me enough time to remember my days of being a small bundle of joy among glistening ores of iron. Then one day, I felt a few rumblings beneath my feet and in a moment of surprise, I was lifted as a I bid farewell to the ground I stayed sleeping for so many years. The rumblings continued for days and weeks. I was lifted in shaking jars and then and drenched in water. I knew I was being changed by a force of labor and weathered to be a fruitful piece of delight.

A newly minted coin; paid out from a bank

When I was first made, I was a shining new coin. Although I could hardly see myself, I liked the sound that my fellow coin members were making. We were handled by a human whom I hardly seen before take me and lace me on top of another and place us in racks. The mint in which I was made was a very busy place and after a while, I was shoved into a sack. Then along with other sacks, I was thrown onto a cart. Cart rides are never comfy for a coin and soon, I was jostling about uncomfortably in my sack. Soon after, our cart stopped. I heard someone say, "What are you carrying in your cart?". "Coins", I heard the cart driver answer. I heard the other man
