Quotative Indexes in African Languages Tom Güldemann, 2008-11-06 The book represents the results of a synchronic and diachronic cross African survey of quotative indexes These are linguistic expressions that signal in the ongoing discourse the presence of a quote often called direct reported speech For this purpose 39 African languages were selected to represent the genealogical and geographical diversity of the continent The study is based primarily on this language sample in particular on the analysis of quotative indexes and related expressions from a text corpus of each sample language but also includes a wide range of data from the published literature on other African as well as non African languages It is the first typological investigation of direct reported discourse of this magnitude in a large group of languages The book may thus serve as a starting point of similar studies in other geographical areas or even with a global scope as well as stimulate more detailed investigations of particular languages The results of the African survey challenge several prevailing cross linguistic generalizations regarding quotative indexes and reported discourse constructions as a whole of which two are of particular interest In the syntactic domain where reported discourse has mostly been dealt with under so called sentential complementation the study supports the minority view that direct reported discourse and also a large portion of indirect reported discourse show hardly any evidence for the claim that the reported clause is a syntactic object complement of some matrix verb With respect to grammaticalization the work concludes that speech verbs are against common belief not a frequent source of quotatives complementizers and other related markers Far more frequent sources are markers of similarity and manner generic verbs of equation inchoativity and action and pronominals referring to the quote or the speaker Another more general conclusion of the study is that especially direct reported discourse can be fruitfully analyzed as part of a larger linguistic domain called mimesis This comprises expressions which represent a state of affairs by means of enactment performance rather than with the help of canonical linguistic signs and includes besides reported discourse world referring bodily gestures ideophone like signs and non linguistic sound African Literatures and Beyond Bernth Lindfors, Geoffrey V. Essays & Literary Criticism David Ambrose, 1999 African Theatre Sam Ukala, 2007 Explorations in Southern African Drama, Theatre and Performance Patrick J. Ebewo, 2017-05-11 In spite of the rich repertoire of artistic traditions in Southern Africa particularly in the areas of drama theatre and performance there seems to be a lack of a corresponding robust academic engagement with these subjects While it can be said that some of the racial groups in the region have received substantial attention in terms of scholarly discussions of their drama and theatre performances the same cannot be said of the black African racial group As such this collection of thirteen chapters represents a compendium of critical and intellectual discourses on black African drama theatre and performance in Botswana Lesotho South Africa and Swaziland The topics covered in the book include amongst others ritual practices interventionist approaches to drama textual analyses and the funeral rites viewed as performance of the South African liberation icon Nelson Mandela The discussions are rooted
