

Since Castaneda's figure only shows the surface you and I know we're in a different place of the, of the

In this drawing Castaneda shows you how he uses the figure in terms of simple forms. He uses blocks to study the front and side planes and the top and down planes. He shows a light from the left and from above. Then, if we say only for this to put shade on the side and down planes. If he had drawn perfectly like the figure and put the same light and shade on them, they would have looked very well.

Even in this study the figure, Castaneda still shows his unswerving training. The line (1) shows the top of the figure.

There is another principle easily learned here. As the artist shows his attention from one block to the next to another, he shows the direction of each form. In other words, objects have only to function such as such.
