Wiring is subject to protection standards to strategy with installation. Allowable wire and cable types and sizes are specified according to the circuit operating voltage and electric current capability, with further restrictions on the environmental conditions, such as ambient temperature range, moisture levels, and exposure to sunlight and chemicals. Associated circuit protection, control and distribution devices within a building's wiring system are subject to voltage, current and functional specification. Wiring protection codes vary via locality[1-3], state or region. The International Electro-technical Commission (IEC) is "struggling to harmonise wiring standards between member countries, while significant differences in design and installation necessities still exist.
