Adolescence John W. Santrock,1998 New edition after 1981 and 1984 of a college textbook Who Cares? Julia T. Wood,1993-12-31 At a time when studies suggest the average American woman spends seventeen years caring for children and eighteen years caring for aging parents Julia T Wood examines how culture creates and sustains our definitions of caring determines who cares along gender lines and assigns the diminished value that caring has in our society Wood argues that America s expanding need for caring is currently being met at an unacceptably high cost to caregivers It is time she believes to examine caregiving roles and the personal political and social issues that surround the question of who cares Caring must be recognized and promoted as an activity that commands the respect and participation of all members of our society men and women alike Only by implementing changes in the basic fabric of American culture affecting both the structure and the policies of our society and government can we Wood concludes carve out a system of caring that will recognize caring as everyone s responsibility Feminist Ethics Claudia Card,1991 Fifteen essays address subjects ranging from the history of feminist ethics to the logic of pluralist feminism and present feminist perspectives on such topics as terrorism bitterness women trusting other women and survival and ethics Paper edition unseen 14 95 Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc heart of modern educational practice and shows how these theories have been used by teachers and teacher trainers The dialogue in this book takes place within and is informed by a multitude of disciplines including philosophy communication studies technology composition rhetoric and education The authors address the practical issues of their chosen theoretical perspectives and reflect on how those perspectives manifest themselves pedagogically Each chapter is followed by a brief response that draws on the experiences and expertise of classroom teachers and theoreticians As such the dialogue between the theory and practice of change is delineated between the chapter authors and respondents Through the Prism of Difference Maxine Baca Zinn, Pierrette Hondagneu-Sotelo, Michael A. Messner, 1997 The editors have gone beyond simply assembling a collection of readings by the leading scholars of sex and gender they introduce a new way to conceptualize the interrelationships between gender relations and other systems of inequality and difference The editors invoke the image of a prism through which different groups are seen not as distinct but in a continuous spectrum The prism approach illustrates the varied ways that gender is constructed relationally and thus experienced differently Toward this end the editors draw from the most recent studies of women and men especially studies of gender relations in the context of different sexual racial ethnic social class physical abilities age and national citizenship contexts Though the majority of articles in the book focus on issues in U S gender relations the editors have included numerous articles that focus on international and transnational factors Together the articles in this book shed critical yet at times optimistic light on the possibilities for change
