The diagram illustrates the greenhouse effect. On the left, a globe represents Earth. An arrow from a sun icon on the right points towards the globe, labeled 'Solar Radiation'. Another arrow points from the globe back towards the sun, labeled 'Earth Radiation'. A third arrow points from the globe to a cloud-like shape labeled 'Atmosphere', and a fourth arrow points from the atmosphere back to the globe, labeled 'Greenhouse Effect'.

The Greenhouse Effect

The Earth is ideally suited for life with a comfortable average temperature. The reason for this is the Greenhouse Effect. It prevents the things (and us!) that keep the Earth warm, and without which it would be a frozen wasteland.
