

Read the following passage and answer the 04 questions given afterwards.

Currently the focus of research into artificial intelligence (AI) is on relatively limited applications, including guiding airplanes and missiles, understanding language, detecting credit card fraud, and diagnosing medical conditions from electrocardiograms. While these avenues certainly contain promise for commercial and industrial interests, the populace at large typically is more interested in a slightly less consequential application of AI. In 1997, Deep Blue, a chess playing computer program, defeated grand master Gary Kasparov in a tournament, marking the first time a computer was able to beat a human world champion. But these more "frivolous" applications of AI are actually valuable indicators of the state of technology. Computer engineers are constantly reviving and reinventing the programming algorithms in an effort to make computers think more like people do. And the exponential increases in processing and storage technology are allowing artificial intelligence researchers to greatly increase the power of AI programs while simultaneously reducing the size and computing needs of the machines. For example, the Deep Blue program required 256 specialized processors to analyze the millions and millions of combinations of moves. Each of these processors was about one hundred times faster than a standard home computer, which means Deep Blue was about 25,600 times faster than a 1997 personal computer. Only five years later, in 2002, AI engineers unleashed a new chess playing program, Deep Fritz. Deep Fritz played Vladimir Kramnik, the highest ranked chess player in the world, to a draw, but this result was anything but a failure to the AI community. Whereas Deep Blue required 256 processors to achieve its victory, Deep Fritz had a mere eight. Deep Blue could analyze 200 million moves per second, but Deep Fritz could deal with only 2.5 million. Yet Deep Fritz's chess playing abilities more closely resemble those of a person. Deep Blue was able to defeat Kasparov by brute strength alone, calculating millions of possible moves and counter moves. Deep Fritz played Kramnik to a draw by using advanced pattern recognition skills, which allowed it to be competitive despite considering fewer move combinations.

1.	What is the purpose of this passage?
	A. Describes the state and speed of research in the field of AI	B. Discusses different AI programmes
2.	C. Compares human abilities to the abilities of AI	D. Challenges assumptions about AI
	Why was Deep Fritz not considered a failure to the AI community as per the passage?
3.	A. Because it won the chess game against the highest ranked chess player in the world	B. Because it was able to imitate human behaviour more closely than its predecessor
	C. It could calculate millions of possible moves and counter moves	D. Because it was not able to imitate human behaviour
3.	From the above passage, what can we infer about human chess players?
	A. They cannot beat Deep Blue	B. Their capabilities are inferior to those of computer programmes.
	C. They rely on pattern recognition skills to play chess	D. They resort to unethical practice to win
