

CLASSICAL CONDITIONING

Classical conditioning involves the association of a stimulus with a response. In this process, a neutral stimulus is paired with an unconditioned stimulus, which naturally elicits a response. Over time, the neutral stimulus becomes a conditioned stimulus, which elicits the same response.

SCENARIO 1

- Before this trial, the dog had never experienced the sound of the bell. It's first experience with the sound of the bell is when it hears the bell ring. The dog's initial response to the sound of the bell is to bark. This is an unconditioned response.

SCENARIO 2

- If a stimulus is followed by a stimulus, the dog will learn to associate the stimulus with the response. In this case, the dog will learn to associate the sound of the bell with the response of salivation.
