The following is the order in which I typically implement these lessons:

1. Holocaust Day 1 PPT – I usually play Sounds of Silence by Simon & Garfunkel while this PPT is running. I usually begin this PPT and the music as soon as students begin to enter the room. There will be a bit of confusion at first, so I play it 2-3 times and use non-verbal cues if necessary to get students to be seated and quiet.
2. K&W columns of the KWL. The students can use information from the PPT for the K column if they knew nothing about the Holocaust before entering the room.
3. Introduction PPT and student notes
4. Escape from Solibor film and questions. I explain to the students that I begin the unit with this film so that they have an understanding of how horrible the things we're about to talk about were and that it gives me something to which I can refer while teaching. I also let them know that there are parts of the film that are difficult to watch, but it's important for us to learn about this part of history so that we might recognize the signs in the future.

Teaching the Tough Issues Jacqueline Darwin, 2015-04-24 This book introduces a groundbreaking teaching method intended to help English social studies and humanities teachers address difficult or controversial topics in their secondary classrooms Because these issues are rarely addressed in teacher preparation programs few teachers feel confident facilitating conversations around culturally and politically sensitive issues in ways that honor their diverse students voices and lead to critical transformative thinking The author describes a four step method to help teachers structure discussions and written assignments while concurrently assisting them in addressing Common Core State Standards Designed to aid students in both developing their own viewpoints on contentious issues and in actively critiquing those of their teachers and peers these practices will enhance any humanities curriculum

Genocide, the World Wars and the Unweaving of Europe Donald Bloxham,2008 The murder of at least one million Armenian Christians in 1915 16 and of some six million Jews from 1939 45 were the most extreme instances of mass murder in the First and Second World Wars respectively This book examines the development and dynamics of both genocides While bringing out the many differences in the origins course and nature of the crimes the book argues that both need to be placed into the context of the wider violent agendas and demographic schemes of the perpetrator states In the earlier case it is important to consider the Ottoman violence against Assyrian Christians and Greek Orthodox subjects and programs of forced assimilation of non Turkish Muslim groups including many Muslims victimized by other states In the later case it is impossible to understand the development of the final solution of the Jewish question without paying attention to Nazi policy against Slavic groups the disabled and Europe s Romany population Both genocides furthermore need to be examined in the deeper contexts of the multi causal violence resulting from the collapse of the eastern and southeastern European dynastic empires from the late nineteenth century and from the establishment of new types of state in their aftermath Finally the book explains why these two major genocides occupy very different places in our contemporary memorial culture It argues that the memory politics of the Armenian genocide illustrate the very tight limits to what we can expect in the way of meaningful international concern for ongoing genocides Meanwhile the instrumentalization of the memory of the Holocaust can actually inhibit self criticism on the parts of the western states that increasingly foreground Holocaust memorial days and museums in their civic education
