

TOBACCO CESSATION RESOURCE GUIDE

FOR HEALTH CENTERS

March 2022

Between 2019-2021, the National Association of Community Health Centers (NACHC) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) worked together to learn how the Million Hearts² Tobacco Cessation Change Package (TCCP) could be adapted to help community health center staff reach Healthy People 2030 goals to reduce illness, disability, and death related to tobacco use and secondhand smoke.

During this pilot, NACHC partnered with the Louisiana Primary Care Association (LA PCA), the Ohio Association of Community Health Centers (OACHC), and three health centers in LA and Ohio³ to apply TCCP strategies and identify clinical methods that work best in the health center setting. Localized and creative approaches were selected and tested, while staff simultaneously managed acute, comprehensive, and ongoing patient care demands.

The multifaceted co-location of clinical services in health centers enabled a broad range of health care team members, including Dental and Pharmacy staff, to uniquely engage in cessation efforts. These skilled professionals were empowered to become essential advocates and caregivers. In person and virtually, Dental and Pharmacy staff effectively partnered with Primary Care staff and Behavioral Health providers to encourage patients to take tobacco cessation steps and reduce the risk of smoking-associated chronic disease and death.

HEALTH CENTER ASSETS & EXPERTISE FOR TOBACCO CESSATION

- DENTAL PROFESSIONALS are well positioned to identify patients who smoke, promote tobacco cessation with patients, offer referrals, and follow-up. Over half of all adults who use tobacco visit the dentist each year.
- PHARMACISTS AND PHARMACY STAFF are well positioned to promote tobacco cessation with patients. They can provide consultation, and in some instances prescribe smoking cessation medications and follow-up.
- TELEHEALTH is a powerful tool for tobacco cessation interventions, which can be incorporated into telehealth workflows for health center care managers and the full range of care team members.

To support tobacco cessation programs at health centers, Primary Care Associations (PCAs) consistently prove to be active and informed partners. PCAs have deep relationships with each health center as well as external partners at the state and local level, like state Tobacco Control Programs. They open doors for evidence-based staff training, strategies to improve motivational interviewing, and specific opportunities for the dental clinic or pharmacy. They may provide access to relevant patient and provider educational materials, ideas, and sometimes funds to support health center efforts. PCAs and Health Center Controlled Networks (HCCNs) – which offer data and training to help health centers improve their reach and care quality – serve as critical assets to reach value-based Healthy People 2030 goals.
