Carolingian And Romanesque Architecture 812pelican History Of Art:

Carolingian and Romanesque Architecture, 800 to 1200 Kenneth John Conant, 1993-01-01 Professor Conant's detailed studies of Santiago de Compostela and of the abbey church at Cluny fit him for this account of building in the period of the round arch which preceded Gothic. In this volume he shows how at the instigation of the monasteries during the little renaissance of Charlemagne Roman methods of construction were revived and fused with local traditions to produce a distinctive Carolingian manner and how such monuments as the Palatine Chapel at Aachen already contained hints of the nobler and more mature Romanesque style which was to become international. Professor Conant extends his survey to cover the regions of medieval France, Spain, Portugal, the Holy Land, Italy, Germany, Northern Europe and Britain. The Pelican History of Art Kenneth John Conant, 1966 Carolingian and Romanesque Architecture 800 to 1200 (pelican History of Art). Bib K. J. CONANT, 1959 Carolingian and Romanesque Architecture 800 to 1200. (2. Ed) Og (3. Ed). Kenneth John Conant, 1966 The Carolingians in Central Europe, their History, Arts and Architecture Herbert Schutz, 2003-12-01 This book presents an historical overview of the Frankish realms in Central Europe during the Carolingian period. Against this background Part II of the book examines the cultural inventory deposited by the scribal culture in Central Europe as represented by manuscripts, crystals, ivories and gem-encrusted liturgical art. Part III deals with such examples of Carolingian wall painting and architecture as are still evident in Central Europe. Though some examples are derivative many are original. To reflect the splendor of the objects and surfaces discussed in Parts II and III the book is lavishly ornamented with pertinent color illustrations. Black and white illustrations generally serve the representation of architecture. The Art of the West in the Middle Ages: Romanesque art Henri Focillon, 1980 Romanesque and the Past John McNeill, Richard Plant, 2024-11-01 The nineteen papers collected in this volume explore a notable phenomenon that of retrospection in the art and architecture of Romanesque Europe. They arise from a conference organized by the British Archaeological Association in 2010 and reflect its interest in how and why the past manifested itself in the visual culture of the 11th and 12th centuries. This took many forms from the casual re-use of ancient material to a specific desire to re-present or emulate earlier objects and buildings. Central to it is a concern for the revival of Roman and early medieval forms: spolia, selective quotation, archaism and the construction of histories. The individual essays presented here cover a wide range of topics and media: the significance of consecration ceremonies in the creation of architectural memory; the rise of pictorial concepts in 12th-century chronicles; the creation of history in the Paris of Hugh of St Victor and the appeal of the works of Bernward of Hildesheim and of Hrabanus Maurus in the centuries after their deaths. There are studies of buildings and the ideological purpose behind them at Tarragona, Ripoll, Cluny, Pannonhalma, Hungary, La Roccella, Calabria and Old St Peter's; comparative studies of Trier, Villeneuve and Glastonbury and of Bury St Edmunds, Rievaulx and Canterbury; and wide-ranging papers on the tantalizing evidence for an engagement with an overseas past in Ireland, an Anglo-Saxon past in England and a

Milanese past among the aisleless cruciform churches of Augustinian Europe The volume concludes with an assessment of the very concept of Romanesque Early Medieval Art John Beckwith, 1968 Romanesque Art Victoria Charles, Klaus H. Carl, 2008-01-01 In art history the term Romanesque distinguishes the period between the eleventh and the thirteenth

Studies in English Pre-Romanesque and Romanesque Architecture Richard Gem, 2004 Trained as both an archaeologist and an art historian Richard Gem established his specialist interest in pre Romanesque and Romanesque architecture with his doctoral research at Cambridge University Since then he has researched published and lectured widely in this subject while holding posts in different fields of cultural resource management Dr Gem s earlier work aimed to establish an understanding of English architecture in the 11th century that would break away from the view that cultural development in this period could be simply explained in terms of whether buildings were constructed before or after the Norman Conquest He has taken a wide view of how cultural processes in England need to be seen in the context of broader European trends in order to understand both English architecture s indebtedness to the Continent and also what gives it its specific national character His earlier papers applied this approach to the development of the Romanesque style of architecture in England through the course of the 11th century while more recently he has applied a similar approach to earlier centuries including the Carolingian period Taking a broad view of cultural trends as his starting point he has always anchored his work on a detailed archaeological historical and stylistic analysis of individual buildings before drawing conclusions This publication includes Dr Gem s main work over a period of quarter of a century Taken together these studies present an overview of the development of English Church architecture from the 7th century to the 12th Romanesque Architecture in Western Europe Sir Alfred William Clapham, 1936 Romanesque Architecture and Its Artistry in Central Europe, 900-1300 Herbert Schutz, 2011 This book seeks to offer a detailed survey of the Romanesque Architectural style preserved in Central Europe It traces developments of the style from earliest examples of the post Carolingian period to the height of sophistication during the transition to Gothic It begins with a survey of the remains and reconstructions of the palaces of the mighty It then offers a selection of castles both as ruins or restored facilities as they can be found in Germany Austria and Alsace Where possible the emphasis rests on seeking out the artistic ornamentation with which the builders enhanced the structures The major part of the book deals with church architecture where the structures are discussed as monumental statements of the faith with consideration given to their embellishments on towers and facades friezes and apses portals and colonnades columns and capitals screens reliefs fonts and statuary wall painting and stained glass Inescapable is the conclusion that these fortresses of God are sermons in stone in which the worshipper finds himself within the Imperium Christianum Romanesque Art George Zarnecki, 1971 Byzantine and Romanesque Architecture Sir Thomas Graham Jackson, 1920 Romanesque Art, 1957 The Origins of the Romanesque V.
