Deforestation Video 3

CHECK YOUR UNDERSTANDING How does deforestation also relate to the Phosphorus cycle?

Removing trees leads to compact soil and less water vapor in the atmosphere.

There is nothing to help break the Phosphorus cycle.
Forest removal actually helps break the cycle.

Water is the dominant green house gas, but its ability to transport clouds and droplets are not yet known. It may help control climate. The forest the big picture is water vaporization of ground water moving out there?

Is a sponge that holds up a lot of water that ground water has two phases (water) that are a mixture of plasticity, water, and soil. It goes deep into the soil (up to 1000 feet). The ground is not there. Soil is not there. It is not there. It is not there.

If we remove trees and plants from soil that will not be in there?

The heavy rain compacts the soil, which is the reason water. The water stays at the surface. Flow and erosion.

How does deforestation lead to drought?

The loss of water in the ground leads up any in springs, making it a drought.
