

Snapshot Autobiography

Materials:

- Copies of Snapshot Worksheet

Plan of Instruction: (2-day lesson)

1. Journal Free-write: What is the story of your birth?

Pair/Share.

2. Discussion:

- How do you know the story of your birth?
- What evidence do you have to back your story?
- How might someone else remember this story?

3. Pass out and explain directions for Snapshot Autobiography.

Students begin to design pamphlets.

HOMEWORK: Students finish pamphlets AND interview someone for second perspective (see second page of Snapshot assignment).

Second Day:

1. Explain that we will first begin by sharing one of our important events. It does not necessarily have to be the one that you asked another person about.
2. Students each share one event. (Given time constraints, you might need to divide class or only ask for volunteers to share an event).
3. Discussion questions:
 - Why did students choose certain events and not others? What made some events more important, or memorable than others?
 - Was it difficult to select events? Why or Why not?
 - What types of evidence would be necessary to “prove” that your selected event actually happened?
 - What happened when you asked someone about the event? Did they agree with your version? Did they remember something different?
4. Closing comments: This is exactly what history is like. History is what happened in the past, just like the events in your life. Our work this year is to figure out how we can gather enough evidence to get the clearest picture possible of what happened in the past.
