3D Printing, Intellectual Property and Innovation Rosa Maria Ballardini, Marcus Norrgård, Jouni Partanen, 2016-04-24 3D printing or more correctly additive manufacturing is the general term for those software driven technologies that create physical objects by successive layering of materials. Due to recent advances in the quality of objects produced and to lower processing costs the increasing dispersion and availability of these technologies have major implications not only for manufacturers and distributors but also for users and consumers raising unprecedented challenges for intellectual property protection and enforcement. Originating in a collaborative study spearheaded by the Hanken School of Economics the Aalto University and the University of Helsinki in Finland and engaging an international consortium of legal design and production engineering experts with substantial contributions from industrial partners the book fully exposes and examines the fundamental questions related to the nexus of intellectual property law emerging technologies 3D printing business innovation and policy issues. Twenty five legal technical and business experts contribute sixteen peer reviewed chapters each focusing on a specific area that collectively evaluate the tensions created by 3D printing technology in the context of the global economy. The topics covered include current and future business models for 3D printing applications intellectual property rights in 3D printing essential patents and technical standards in additive manufacturing patent and bioprinting private use and 3D printing copyright licences on the user generated content UGC in 3D printing copyright implications of 3D scanning and non traditional trademark infringement in the 3D printing context.
