Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1907 edition. Excerpt: THE CASE OF THE LOST FOREIGNER I have already said in more than one place that Hewitt's personal relations with the members of the London police force were of a cordial character. In the course of his work it has frequently been Hewitt's hap to learn of matters on which the police were glad of information and that information was always passed on at once and so long as no infringement of regulations or damage to public service were involved Hewitt could always rely on a return in kind. It was with a message of a useful sort that Hewitt one day dropped into Vine Street police station and asked for a particular inspector who was not in. Hewitt sat and wrote a note and by way of making conversation said to the inspector on duty: 'Anything very startling this way to-day?' 'Nothing very startling, perhaps,' as yet the inspector replied. 'But one of our chaps picked up rather an odd customer a little while ago. Lunatic of some sort. I should think in fact I've sent for the doctor to see him. He's a foreigner, a Frenchman, I believe. He seemed horribly weak and faint, but the oddest thing occurred when one of the men thinking he might be hungry brought in some bread. He went into fits of terror at the sight of it and wouldn't be pacified till they took it away again. That was strange. Odd wasn't it? And he was hungry too. They brought him some more a little while after and he didn't funk it a bit, pitched into it in fact like anything and ate it all with some cold beef. It's the way with some lunatics, never the same five minutes together. He keeps crying like a baby and saying things we can't understand. As it happens there's nobody in just now who speaks French. I speak French,' Hewitt replied. 'Shall I try him?' Chronicles of Martin Hewitt (Classic Reprint) Arthur Morrison, 2017-10-25 Excerpt from Chronicles of Martin Hewitt: Mr Kingscote, alive! A jobbing gardener who kept the garden in order by casual work from time to time, had been arrested in consequence of footprints exactly corresponding with his boots having been found on the garden beds near the French window of the smoking room.
