Scientists Sign Petition, Global Warming Not the Fault of Human Activity

Over 31 000 scientists from the United States have signed a petition stating they do not believe human activities have caused global warming.

The petition states that there is not enough evidence to prove that human activities have added excess “greenhouse gases” to the atmosphere that increase the overall temperature of our world. The petition also states that, even if global warming is occurring, we should let it happen, as there are benefits to having more methane and carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

The petition, along with information about the people signing the petition, can be found at the website www.oism.org/pproject.

Adapted from www.canadafreepress.com/index.php/article/3128

2. Most scientists deny that man is responsible for global warming.
- A. The statement is refuted by the article.
B. The statement is supported by the article.
C. The statement is both supported and refuted by the article.
D. The statement is neither supported nor refuted by the article.

Catalog United States. National Bureau of Standards,1978 Evidence, Politics, and Education Policy Lorraine M. McDonnell,M. Stephen Weatherford,2021-02-01 In Evidence Politics and Education Policy political scientists Lorraine M McDonnell and M Stephen Weatherford provide an original analysis of evidence use in education policymaking to help scholars and advocates shape policy more effectively The book shows how multiple types of evidence are combined as elected officials and their staffs work with researchers advocates policy entrepreneurs and intermediary organizations to develop create and implement education policies Evidence Politics and Education Policy offers an in depth understanding of the political environment in which evidence is solicited and used. Two key case studies inform the book's findings. The primary case, a major multimethod study, examines the development and early implementation of the Common Core State Standards at the national level and in four states: California, Indiana, Massachusetts, and Tennessee. A comparative case analyzes the evidence used in Congressional hearings over the twenty-year history of the Children's Health Insurance Program. Together, the two cases illustrate the conditions under which different types of evidence are used and, in particular, how federalism, the complexity of the policy problem, and the policy's maturity shape evidence use. McDonnell and Weatherford focus on three leverage points for strengthening the use of research evidence in education policy: integrating research findings with value-based policy ideas; designing policies with incentives for research use built into their rules and organizational structures; and training policy analysts to promote the use of research in policymaking venues.

Reece, Eric Jeffrey Simon, 2007. Essential Biology is a brief non-majors biology book that combines clear writing, real world applications, vivid art, and powerful media to teach readers the important concepts of biology and give them an appreciation for how biology relates to their everyday lives. In the Second Edition, best-selling authors Neil Campbell and Jane Reece are joined by Eric Simon, who uses his experience teaching non-majors biology to keep the book both accessible and up to date. To help readers become informed citizens, the new edition features even more human applications and up to date information on important issues like DNA technology, cloning, and global warming.

KEY TOPICS The book covers four major biological topics: cells, genetics, evolution, diversity, and ecology, and uses evolution as an overarching theme to tie all 20 chapters together. For college instructors, students, or anyone interested in biology.
