Global Cooperation and the Human Factor in International Relations Dirk Messner, Silke Weinlich, 2015-12-14 This book aims to pave the way for a new interdisciplinary approach to global cooperation research It does so by bringing in disciplines whose insights about human behaviour might provide a crucial yet hitherto neglected foundation for understanding how and under which conditions global cooperation can succeed As the first profoundly interdisciplinary book dealing with global cooperation it provides the state of the art on human cooperation in selected disciplines evolutionary anthropology and biology decision sciences social psychology complex system sciences written by leading experts The book argues that scholars in the field of global governance should know and could learn from what other disciplines tell us about the capabilities and limits of humans to cooperate This new knowledge will generate food for thought and cause creative disturbances allowing us a different interpretation of the obstacles to cooperation observed in world politics today It also offers first accounts of interdisciplinary global cooperation research for instance by exploring the possibilities and consequences of global we identities by describing the basic cooperation mechanism that are valid across disciplines or by bringing an evolutionary perspective to diplomacy This book will be of great interest to scholars and postgraduates in International Relations Global Governance and International Development The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution CC BY 4.0 license
