different clinical and nutritional interventions and are at risk for different morbidities than those small for gestational age. This publication focuses on three main subjects: Global epidemiology, catch up growth and feeding practices. These topics have been selected to provide a solid contextual basis for the nature and extent of the problem, highlighting changes in prevalence and risk across different healthcare settings. The available data strongly suggest that growth outcomes are dependent on a multitude of environmental factors that interact with nutrient intakes. Epidemiology, modern technology and the latest science are brought together to promote a better understanding of the short and long term needs and outcomes of low birthweight babies depending on whether they are born too small or too early.

Olaf Dössel, Wolfgang C. Schlegel, 2010-01-04. Present Your Research to the World. The World Congress 2009 on Medical Physics and Biomedical Engineering, the triennial scientific meeting of the IUPESM, is the world's leading forum for presenting the results of current scientific work in health-related physics and technologies to an international audience. With more than 2,800 presentations, it will be the biggest conference in the fields of Medical Physics and Biomedical Engineering in 2009. Medical physics, biomedical engineering and bioengineering have been driving forces of innovation and progress in medicine and healthcare over the past two decades. As new key technologies arise with significant potential to open new options in diagnostics and therapeutics, it is a multidisciplinary task to evaluate their benefit for medicine and healthcare with respect to the quality of performance and therapeutic output. Covering key aspects such as information and communication technologies, micro and nanosystems, optics and biotechnology, the congress will serve as an inter- and multidisciplinary platform that brings together people from basic research, R & D, industry and medical application to discuss these issues. As a major event for science, medicine and technology, the congress provides a comprehensive overview and in-depth first-hand information on new developments, advanced technologies and current and future applications. With this Final Program, we would like to give you an overview of the dimension of the congress and invite you to join us in Munich.
