

R interviews P or obtains from P a description of a situation reflecting the phenomenon under study. the original description is from the perspective of ordinary life or everyday world if the data collection was by means of an interview, R transcribes verbatim. if originally a written description, R works with it as a given.

Step 1

Within the attitude of the scientific phenomenological reduction, R reads the transcription or description to grasp the basic sense of the whole situated description. Nothing is done at this stage.

Step 2

R, remaining within the scientific phenomenological reduction, then creates parts by delineating psychological units. A meaning unit is determined whenever R, in a psychological perspective and mindful of the phenomenon being researched, experiences a transition in meaning when he or she reads the description from the beginning. Slashes are placed in the description at the appropriate places

Step 3

R, still within the scientific phenomenological reduction, then transform P's everyday expressions into expressions that highlight the psychological meanings lived by P. This requires the use of free imaginative variation as well as rendering implicit factors explicit.

Step 4

Based on the transformed meaning units and still within the scientific phenomenological reduction, R uses the transformed meaning unit expression as the basis for describing the psychological structure of experience.
