The diagnostic methodologies of clinical examination, radiographic evaluation and laboratory data may not always confirm a diagnosis. In such cases, cytology proves to be a crucial tool in confirming disease processes or conditions. Presently, there is a need for less invasive and cost-effective methods for tumor diagnosis. Sangha et al 2011. The success of cytological diagnosis relies on the collection of appropriate representative cells, specimen preparation and processing as well as the interpretation of smears, which are all interdependent procedures. Roszel 1981, Lumsden and Baker 2000. The arrangement of neoplastic cells within tissue is critical for determining the diagnosis of various types of tumors, evaluating surgical margins and distinguishing between benign and malignant tumors. Stirtzinger 1988. The role of cytology as a diagnostic tool in veterinary medicine is continuously developing and expanding, establishing itself as a reliable, minimally invasive method for obtaining a tissue diagnosis over the last two decades. As clinicians increase their use of diagnostic techniques and cytopathologists gain experience with a wider range of lesions, tissue samples, disease processes and accuracy of the diagnosis must be improved. Meinkoth and Cowell 2002. Cytology serves as a screening diagnostic tool, classifying lesions as inflammatory, hyperplastic or neoplastic. An experienced cytologist can definitively diagnose specific neoplasms, provide tentative diagnoses for various types of tumors, identify sites of tumor metastasis and monitor tumor regrowth following anticancer therapy. Information obtained from cytology may prove useful in establishing a diagnosis, determining a prognosis and formulating a diagnostic or therapeutic plan.
