How to Make a Lava Lamp

What Happened

A lava lamp works because of two different scientific principles: density and polarity.

Density is the measurement of how compact a substance is. The denser it is, the more it will sink.

If you mix oil and water, you'll find that the oil is heavier than the water. This is because oil is less dense than water. So it will sit on top of the water.

Adding food coloring to the oil and water will create a lava lamp effect. The food coloring is "polar" because it has a positive electrical charge that attracts water molecules.

Oil molecules, however, are non-polar. They don't have a positive charge, so they are not attracted to the water molecules at all. This is why oil and water don't mix.

Instead of mixing, a light color separates from the dark color. The oil will float on top of the water. The food coloring will move to the water. The oil will move to the top. The water will move to the bottom. The oil will move to the top. The water will move to the bottom. The oil will move to the top. The water will move to the bottom.
