

Documenting Internal Control Evaluations

The COSO Framework sets out five Components of internal control and seventeen Principles representing the fundamental concepts associated with Components. These Components and Principles of internal control are suitable for all entities and groups of people. All seventeen Principles also apply to each Category of Objective, as well as to objectives and sub-objectives within a Category.

Additionally, the Control Activities Component of control represents the actions established by policies and procedures to help ensure that management directives carried out. These Control Activities are performed at all levels of the entity and extend down into the organization to the business processes and transactional level, and over the technology environment.

Documentation of internal controls can be done using two tools, the COSO Template (for entity-level controls) and the Risk Control Matrix (for activity-level controls). This is depicted below.
