

TRYING ON CYCLING SHORTS THE RIGHT WAY.

A friendly public service announcement from your friends at Canadian Cycling Magazine and Giordana Cycling Apparel. Please use these easy-to-follow steps and tips to ensure you're buying a pair of shorts that fit and work for you.

Step by Step with

Joe and Jane Cyclist

1. Bring three dots of your chosen shorts into the dressing room. That's right, three you need, the next size up (and down). Did you enter yet one more? Get outta here!

2. Always leave an undergarment on when trying on cycling shorts and bibs. It's a funny game thing. Did you leave your's off? Put 'em back on!

3. Take a moment to make sure all straps, bands, and cuffs are doing the business. Legs, bums, and shorts should feel a bit snug while standing.

4. Stand by your seat and do a few knee raises with both legs. That's right, the legs are not meant to be used, and the leg theme will tell you a position similar to what you'll find on the bike.

5. Pinch the lycra along your crotch and adjust. The material should snap back right against your skin if you have the right size.

6. Try standing in the dynamic pose when shorts are designed to fit a rider who's on a bike. If the shorts feel uncomfortable, you've found your size!

7. If you feel anything swelling or burning, remove and pulling head from that heat down. If you're wearing lycra, or spandex, or anything else, it's not meant to be there. Take a break. Take a break. Take a break.

8. Once you've found the right shorts, get out there and ride. If there's a pair of cycling shorts that fit properly, you'll have a more enjoyable and comfortable riding experience.

The Cycling Position

QUICK TIPS

- Bib uppers, waist bands, and leg hems just love to roll, flip, and turn as you're stepping into a garment. Make sure the garment is in the proper place before making any decisions on the fit.
- Remember lycra is meant to be tight and compressive, this is what allows the material to do its job of supporting and micro-messaging your muscles for increased circulation and endurance. At least that's what Giordana brand bibs and shorts are designed to do!
- An insert/chamois should be elastic and conform to the body in motion. Exposed materials should be soft and not exposed stitching or hard edges, this can become irritating over the course of a ride. Padding should be substantial enough that it doesn't bottom out under your weight, but minimal enough that it's not obstructive. Look for stitching that is reinforcing so that if it's slightly damaged it won't unravel. The insert needs to wick moisture and breathe efficiently to help keep you dry, avoid chamois that have printing or any ink applied to them.
- Always reference the garment's tag before washing your shorts. Generally avoiding the use of a dryer is suggested, many performance materials will be degraded by its excessive heat. Chamois cream is another item that can cause the materials of your shorts to be damaged. A pair of Giordana cycling shorts doesn't need any creams or ointments. Our chamois technology is designed to work best when directly against the skin. With no secondary barriers or lubricants in-between. That's right, underwear before you buy, but not when you go for a ride!
