

10 Rights for Safe Medication Administration

Right Drug

Confirm and verify the order, the drug name, and its form. Verify the expiry date. Beware of sound-alike medications.

Right Patient

Use two different identifiers to verify the client: ask their name (even if you know it) and check the ID band before giving the medication.

Right Dose

Check the dosage against the doctor's prescription and the medication sheet. Question whether this is the usual dose for the drug (especially among pediatric clients).

Right Route

Check on the order whether the route prescribed is oral, by injection, intravenously, or any other route.

Right Time

Check on the order when and how frequently the medication should be given and also on the documentation when the drug was last given.

Right to Refuse

Patients have the right to refuse medications. Provide information about the drug so they can make an informed decision. Additionally, the nurse has the right to refuse to administer a drug, based on their clinical judgment, if it's not in the best interest of the patient.

Right Knowledge and Understanding

Everyone who prescribes, dispenses and administers medication needs knowledge and understanding of each drug.

Right Questions or Challenges

Clinical judgment requires you to ask questions. Raise any doubts or questions about the medications before administering it.

Right Response or Outcomes

At all stages of medical administration, observe and document the client's response.

Right Advice

Provide the patient with all the information and relevant advice that they need, both while they are in hospital and when they are taking the drug at home.
