Talent Development and the Global Economy Fredrick. M. Nafukho, Khali Dirani, Beverly Irby, 2017-08-01 Talent has been identified as the only differentiator for an organization's nation or any region's success in this uncertain complex competitive and global environment Ulrich 2008 defined talent as the equation of 3Cs Talent Competence x Commitment x Contribution Malaeb and Chanaron 2010 p 2 noted Competence means that employees have the skills and abilities today and in the future for required business results Commitment means that employees are involved and engaged while Contribution means that employees find personal abundance at occupation While Ulrich 2008 observed that commitment focused on meaning and identity and other restraints that tap employee's heart This book is unique in many ways which makes it extraordinary First unlike other books that have examined issues of change facing the global economy no book has examined the issue of talent development from the perspective of special interest groups including management international students women refugees refugees non governmental organizations for profit for benefit and nonprofit organizations Thus talent development world over has become one of the most important issues when it comes to developing human resources especially through education and training The book presents pertinent research and practice on talent development management and argues that the term talent development broadly refers to management and development of high performing and high potential individuals in society required to carry out critical organizational and society roles aimed at improving human development The contributors of the book chapters include individuals actively involved in research teaching and practice in higher education and in business and industry The chapters are based on empirical data including review of relevant literature The book also recognizes that talent development is more than just crisis management and includes best talent management practices shared governance meaningful reforms strategic planning transparency and accountability social justice and respect for human life and the need to develop humane organizations and humane communities The contributions take cognizance of the fact that talent development as a concept is facing fundamental changes in the global knowledge economy and especially with political changes taking place world over Contributors also take cognizance of the fact that one important source of change in society has been the accelerating speed of scientific and technological advancement driven by the power of the Internet hence the need to develop talent for the 21st century and beyond The book is basically an academic book for use by undergraduates and graduate students at universities for profit for benefit and non profit organizations policy makers and formulators in ministries of Education supra national organizations foreign organizations multilateral organizations non governmental organizations community based organizations as well as development stakeholders and community organizers

Career Development and Systems Theory Wendy Patton, Mary McMahon, 2006 The Systems Theory Framework was developed to produce a metatheoretical framework through which the contribution of all theories to our understanding of career behaviour could be recognised In addition it emphasises the individual as the site for the integration of theory and practice Its utility has become more broadly acknowledged through its application to a range of cultural groups and settings qualitative assessment processes career counselling and multicultural career counselling For these reasons the STF is a very valuable addition to the field of career theory In viewing the field of career theory as a system open to changes and developments from within itself and through constantly interrelating with other systems the STF and this book are adding to the pattern of knowledge and relationships within the career field The contents of this book will be integrated within the field as representative of a shift in understanding existing relationships within and between theories In the same way each reader will integrate the contents of the book within their existing views about the current state of career theory and within their current theory practice relationship Back cover ed

Handbook of Career Development Gideon Arulmani, Anuradha J. Bakshi, Frederick T. L. Leong, A. G. Watts, 2014-02-08 This book is focused on work occupation and career development themes that are fundamental to a wide range of human activities and relevant across all cultures Yet theorizing and model building about this most ubiquitous of human activities from international perspectives have not been vigorous An examination of the literature pertaining to career development counseling and guidance that has developed over the last fifty years reveals theorizing and model building have been largely dominated by Western epistemologies some of the largest workforces in the world are in the developing world Career guidance is rapidly emerging as a strongly felt need in these contexts If more relevant models are to be developed frameworks from other cultures and economies must be recognized as providing constructs that would offer a deeper understanding of career development This does not mean that existing ideas are to be discarded Instead an integrative approach that blends universal principles with particular needs could offer a framework for theorizing research and practice that has wider relevance The central objective of this handbook is to draw the wisdom and experiences of different cultures together to consider both universal and specific principles for career guidance and counseling that are socially and economically relevant to contemporary challenges and issues This book is focused on extending existing concepts to broader contexts as well as introducing new concepts relevant to the discipline of career guidance and counseling The Career Development Quarterly , 2009 Encyclopedia of Career Development Jeffrey H. Greenhaus, Gerard A.

human resource management perspectives International Handbook of Career Guidance James A. Athanasou, R. van Esbroeck, 2008-08-02 The International Handbook of Career Guidance represents a project of international professional cooperation. It is intended as a catalyst for reform and was designed to support the development of career guidance in the years to come. Working for over four years from Belgium and Australia we had the privilege to collaborate with over 50 colleagues throughout the world to produce this Handbook. In every instance we selected key researchers who have an established reputation in the field of career development. They agreed to be involved and we are grateful for their support in this major effort. In this handbook we have tried to bring together a collection that summarises the diverse aspects of career guidance. It is a synthesis of the domain of career and vocational guidance firstly for an international readership and secondly it is designed to act as a reference for academics, researchers and professionals in the expanding field of career development. For this reason the Handbook includes coverage of the background and history of guidance right through to poignant issues relating to careers in the modern world of work. Policy issues relating to the provision of careers services as well as professional issues relating to career education, career counselling, career assessment, program evaluation and research methodologies are covered. Sustainable Development, Career Counselling and Career Education Laura Nota, Salvatore Soresi, Ilaria Di Maggio, Sara Santilli, Maria Cristina Ginevra, 2020-11-02 This book is based on the Life Design paradigm and discusses the efforts made to overcome the matching paradigm between individuals and their work contexts in order to guarantee the adoption of an active role for future career planning. Starting from the evolution of career counselling and vocational guidance in the 20th century and then following the more updated reflections in the Life Design paradigm, this book discusses research results from the Larios Laboratory, Padova, Italy, in collaboration with numerous international colleagues and institutions. These results show that career counselling and vocational designing can not only help people to plan their future in agentive ways but also to help them getting out of the mists of the present and to project themselves into a future that is yet to be created. This future is aligned by the world of research and international institutions such as the UN and WHO and follows the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development with particular attention to Sustainable Development Goals 4, 8 and 12. This book reveals how trajectories can be created from one's own mission realized with the help of others and newly acquired strengths. It shows how career counselling and vocational designing can help people to build their own future from an inclusive and sustainable perspective based on social justice and to help build a better future for all.

Journal of Career Development, 1997 Career Counseling in Schools Roger D. Herring, 1998 This handbook is a resource for counselor educators, school counselors and other helping professionals who have not discovered an appropriate multicultural approach to career development. It is designed to enhance the school counselor's knowledge about cultural diversity and to provide appropriate career development interventions with special population students. This book combines the themes of the relation of changing demographics to sociocultural and psychocultural imperatives in schools, the balance between universalism and cultural pluralism the resilience and adaptation of ethnic and cultural student groups and the ethnic and cultural status as stressors on the normal development of school age youths It presents explicit interventions assessment techniques and information services for successful career counseling with diverse school aged populations It addresses the unique career concerns of immigrant students gay lesbian and bisexual students and students with physical mental or medial challenges Each chapter contains experiential activities that can be adapted to various ages grade level and learning styles Contains an extensive reference list and an index MKA
