Challenging Transitions In Learning And Work:

Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work, 2010-01-01 In the past two decades advanced capitalist countries have seen sustained growth in labour market participation along with a growth in the number of jobs workers tend to have in their working lives Over a slightly longer period we also see that participation in both formal educational attainment and a range of non compulsory learning training has grown However labour market discrimination based on gender age disability and race ethnicity remains a serious issue in virtually all OECD countries Challenging Transitions in Learning and Work presents a critical and expansive exploration of learning and work transitions within this context These transitions are challenging for those enmeshed in them and need to be actively challenged through the critical research reported The impetus for this volume its conceptual framing and much of the research emerges from the team of Canadian researchers who together completed case study and survey projects within the Work and Lifelong Learning WALL network The authors include leading scholars with established international reputations as well as emerging researchers with fresh perspectives This volume will appeal to researchers and policy makers internationally with an interest in educational studies and industrial sociology

through the Lifecourse Kathryn Ecclestone, Gert Biesta, Martin Hughes, 2009-10-16 Like many ideas that inform policy practice and research transition has many meanings Children make a transition to adulthood pupils move from primary to secondary school and there is then a movement from school to work training or further education Transitions can lead to profound and positive change and be an impetus for new learning for some individuals and be unsettling difficult and unproductive for others Transitions have become a key concern for policy makers and the subject of numerous policy changes over the past ten years They are also of interest to researchers and professionals working with different groups Transitions and Learning Through the Lifecourse examines transitions across a range of education life and work settings It explores the claim that successful transitions are essential for educational inclusion social achievement and economic prosperity and that individuals and institutions need to manage them more effectively Aimed primarily at academic researchers and students at all levels of study across a range of disciplines including education careers studies sociology feminist and cultural studies this book is the first systematic attempt to bring together and evaluate insights about educational life and work transitions from a range of different fields of research Contributions include The transition between home and school The effects of gender class and age Transitions to further and higher education Transitions for students with disabilities Transitions into the workplace Learning within the workplace Approaches to managing transitions
